

Hello again Kory MacGregor from Roth Heating and Cooling,

My name is Nancy Morales, and I am studying electrical and computer engineering at Oregon State University. I hope you are having a good day Mr. MacGregor and I thank you once more for helping me be successful in my courses this year. It has helped motivate me to continue working hard in all my classes and give me the courage to take up a job as a teaching assistant (TA) for the school of electrical and computer engineering. This term I am taking an ethics course of computer science, digital logic and design for electrical engineering plus its lab, the last series course for electrical fundamentals, and a geography course for risks, hazards, and disasters. The class I am a TA for is the first in the series for electrical fundamentals. My second year at college student has been very eventful with a lot of things to manage such as homework and collecting rent from my housemates; however, at those points, I learned how to find strength and communicate with the correct people when the pressure of school becomes too much.

With the scholarship, the tension of paying for college this year has relieved some financial anxiety in my family, which I am thankful for. Living off campus has been good since I do have to worry about paying for room or board anymore. My younger sister is about to finish her first year of university; therefore, with the renewal of this scholarship, the pressure of paying for school alleviates the stress from my parents a little. This upcoming year I will enter my upper division courses at OSU meaning my tuition will increase, but that will be okay since that is the life of someone who wants to be an electrical and computer engineer. Additionally, I have secured an internship at Oregon Energy Trust for their solar program this summer; I cannot wait to see the opportunities that will arise from this since it is only the beginning.

Thank you once again for the scholarship and help give me an opportunity to be at college.

Sincerely,

Nancy Cornelio Morales
